MIT Files Request

According to C. Brendon Noonan, one of the three Cambridge tax assessors, MIT has filed a request for abatement with the Board of Assessment. If this is not granted, MIT will have to appeal to the State Appellate Tax Board. The taxability of married student dormitories has never been decided in Massachusetts courts. According to MIT's Treasurer, Joseph Snyder, "It is still open to careful examination by both When asked about the present state of the negotiations, Snyder commented "We are trying to work out the best thing we can for the Institute and for the assessor.''

Gerould assumes bill paid Reminded that tax bills are due November 1, Noonan replied "Chances are, they (MIT) have paid it." Gerould added "I'm assuming the bill (presented to MIT) has been paid."

In the past, Cambridge policy had permitted MIT to make payments in lieu of taxes on all but investment property. MIT's payments have often made the school the largest taxpayer in the city.

According to The Crimson, Harvard has informally offered to pay the City 50% of the assessed value of married student housing. The newspaper stated that MIT has made the same offer.

American college students reflect the society they live in. Concerned primarily about themselves, their work, their social life and their future, they give only a secondary interest to politics and college football.

Hardly surprising, these views appeared over and over again in eight separate articles describing the "Mood of the Students." The articles, written by college newspaper editors, appeared in Sunday's New York Times Magazine.

The writers contradicted belief that conservatism is the dominant political force on today's campus. Liberalism is on the rise, the editors say.

The attitudes at the other campuses can also be seen at MIT. Students think first of studying, dating, and getting into graduate school, and only finally of national and world issues.

The current preoccupation with private rather than public affairs can be understood in view of the pressures on the student. However, this lack of involvement in public issues leads to an unfortunate isolation of most students from the rest of society.

New Editor

The Board of Directors of The Tech is pleased to announce the election of Walt Winshall '64 as Features Editor. Mr. Winshall, of Alpha Epsilon Pi and Detroit, Michigan, was previously Acting Features Editor.

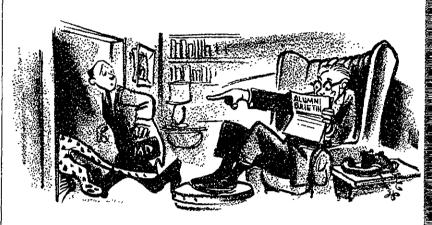

SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE AND JAZZ LIKE THAT

I am now an elderly gentleman, full of years and aches, but my thoughts keep ever turning to my undergraduate days. This is called "arrested development."

But I cannot stop the healing tide of nostalgia that washes over me as I recall those golden campus days, those ivy-covered buildings (actually, at my college, there was only ivy: no bricks). those pulse-tingling lectures on John Dryden and Cotton Mather, the many friends I made, the many deans I bit.

I know some of you are already dreading the day when you graduate and lose touch with all your merry classmates. It is my pleasant task today to assure you that it need not be so: all you have to do is join the Alumni Association and every year you will receive a bright, newsy, chatty bulletin, chock-full of tidings about your old buddies.

Oh, what a red-letter day it is at my house, the day the Alumni Bulletin arrives! I cancel all my engagements, take the phone off the hook, dismiss my resident osteopath, put the cheetah outside, and settle down for an evening of pure pleasure with the Bulletin and (need I add?) a good supply of Marlboro Cigarettes.

Whenever I am having fun, a Marlboro makes the fun even more fun. That filter, that flavor, that yielding soft pack, that firm Flip Top box, never fails to heighten my pleasure whether I am playing Double Canfield or watching the radio or knitting an afghan or enjoying any other diverting pursuit you might name-except, of course, spear fishing. But then, how much spear fishing does one do in Clovis, New Mexico, where I live?

But I digress. Let us return to my Alumni Bulletin and the fascinating news about my old friends and classmates. I quote from the current issue:

"Well, fellow alums, it certainly has been a wing-dinger of a year for us old grads! Remember Mildred Cheddar and Harry Camembert, those crazy kids who always held hands in Econ II? Well, they're married now and living in Clovis, New Mexico, where Harry rents spear-fishing equipment, and Mildred has just given birth to a lovely 28-pound daughter, her second in four months. Nice going, Mildred and Harry!

"Remember Jethro Brie, the man we voted most likely to succeed? Well, old Jethro is still gathering laurels! Last week he was voted 'Motorman of the Year' by his fellow workers in the Duluth streetcar system. 'I owe it all to my brakeman,' said Jethro in a characteristically modest acceptance speech. Same old Jethro!

"Probably the most glamorous time had by any of us old alums was had by Francis Macomber last year. He went on a big game hunting safari all the way to Africa! We received many interesting post cards from Francis until he was alas accidentally shot and killed by his wife and white hunter. Tough luck, Francis!

"Wilametta 'Deadeye' Macomber, widow of the late beloved Francis Macomber, was married yesterday to Fred 'Sureshot' Sigafoos, white hunter, in a simple double-ring ceremony in Nairobi. Many happy returns, Wilametta and Fred!

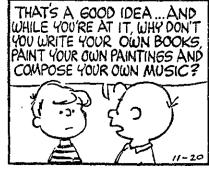

"Well, alums, that just about wraps it up for this year. Buy bonds!"

British influence education in India

The seven Americans in my work group were facing an audito ourselves.

Indian students are faced with only one set of exams a year and one British-style final exam at the end of their period of study. During the year, homework to be handed in is rarely assigned. Class quizzes as we know them don't exist. In class, the instructors as a rule don't even address questions to their students.

The one professor we met who did entertain classroom discussion (he was also the Vice-Chancellor of Benares Hindu University) was famous among the students for his unusual innovation. And even he had a great deal of difficulty getting his students to speak up and answer him, largely since the Indians are taught to give great reverence to their elder or more learned country-

The reason for this marked contrast with an MIT education. for example, comes both from the inherited British form of instruction and unique features of life in India. British style education is predicated on the availability of books for the students, and the students' desire to read them. Only in this context does a single final exam make any

by Dave Kress

MIT's harriers finished 11th among 22 teams at the New England Cross-country Championships at Franklin Park Monday, November 11. Sumner Brown '66 was 10th among over 150 individuals, with Jim Keefe of Central Connecticut taking first. John Dressler '64 received the MIT Track Club Award for cutstanding crosscountry man for the season at the team banquet November 13.

The result of the New England's gave the Techmen their highest team and individual scores in recent years. Other MIT scorers were Roger Butler '65, 49th; Bill Purves '65, 73th; Rob Wesson '66, 78th; and Dick McMillin '65, 84th. Dressler's award was based on his devotion, spirit, improvement, and contribution to team spirit and performance.

Also at the banquet, McMillin was re-elected varsity captain for next season. Elliott Andrews '67 was elected post- season freshman captain, and Phil Sikes '67, this year's freshman manager, was elected varsity manager for next season to succeed Henry Modetz '64.

On the Sports Scene

By Ted Trueblood

Tech sports on the whole are presently caught in the doldrums of that twice yearly period called "between seasons" where one season has just finished and the other has not quite started.

Brown goes to Wheaton

Still in action are the MIT harriers whose post-season activity could very well add strength to the fine 8-5 record they garnered this year. Sumner Brown '66, Tech's top runner this season, was the first MIT harrier entered in the National Collegiate Small College Championships since 1958. His 10th place showing in the New England Championships entitled him to make the trip to Wheaton College in Wheaton, Illinois on November 16 to be the only man from the Greater Boston area entered.

After the race at Wheaton, Brown rejoined the Tech crosscountry team in New York for the ICAAAA Championship races on the 18th at Van Cortland Park. The results of these races will be in soon and Tech should be among the better small college teams

Batterman has winning record

Swimming coach Charlie Batterman starts his seventh season with the MIT swimmers. In six seasons he has led the Tech swimming squads to a fine 38 to 19 won-loss record.

As soccer coach, Batterman has an even better record than with the swimmers. His six year total now stands at 41 to 19. Together, these two records give Coach Batterman a combined record of 79 to 38 for a .676 winning percentage—one of the best

Tars take second in Staake races

by John Schwarz

Tech's skippers wrapped up a fine fall sailing season with a second place finish in the Staake Trophy competition at New Londen, Connecticut, November 9 and 10, after a protest awarded the victory to Dartmouth. This was the third disputed protest the Techmen have had to contend with this season, and the second in the last three meets that has cost a victory.

The Staake Trophy competition was a consolation meet for those teams who some weeks ago failed to qualify for the Fowle Trophy championship at MIT also November 9 and 10. In that qualifying round Tech lost out on another protest, this one by Boston University.

All this is quite an achievement, since the field in such competition usually consists of ten or more teams.
